ST. JOHN McCLEAN ENDS LIFE; ONCE NEWSPAPERMAN

St. John McClean, assistant to the borough president of Queens, New York city, and a former Gettysburg newspaperman and lawyer, was found dead Tuesday morning, a suicide in the gas-filled kitchen of the home in which he had a furnished apartment on Bayside avenue, Flushing, Queens.

Mr. McClean had been despondent due to the ill health of his wife. On Tuesday morning, Mrs. Pauline Sayre, with whose family Mr. McClean resided, detected the odor of escaping gas and traced it to the kitchen of the house. There she found Mr. McClean unconscious on the floor. Every jet of the stove, including the oven, was turned on. Mrs. Sayre opened doors and windows and turned off the gas, but overlooked two jets. She telephoned police, and when they arrived she was outside the house, slightly affected by the gas fumes she had inhaled, and two jets were still open in the kitchen.

Born in Gettysburg, Doctor Constantino, of Flushing hospital pronounced Mr. McClean dead and treated Mrs. Sayre. No notes were left by Mr. McClean and police attributed his suicide to his wife's illness.

Born in Gettysburg on March 25, 1881, the son of the late Judge William McClean and Malinda (Cates) McClean, the deceased attended Gettysburg college in 1900. He was a member of the Phi Delta Theta social fraternity at college.

St. John McClean read law in the office of his father here, who was judge of the forty-second Pennsylvania district, from 1875 to 1894. St. John McClean was a member of the Adams county bar and maintained an office in the former Star and Sentinel building on Baltimore street.

His newspaper experience in Gettysburg included the managing editorship of the "Progress" and the "Times" for several years.

Newspaper Career
He left Gettysburg about 35 years ago and became city hall reporter in Philadelphia for "The Philadelphia Evening Ledger." He next worked for "The Buffalo News" and for 15 years ago went to Queens, where he was editor of "The Flushing Evening Journal." He also worked on the "Courier" staff in Camden, New Jersey, for a time.

After a term of employment with "The Staten Island Advance"—Mr. McClean went to "The Long Island Daily Star" in Long Island City as managing editor, his last newspaper post.

Since 1932 he had been assistant to George U. Harvey, borough president of Queens. Mr. Harvey said, "I am deeply shocked at the unfortunate death of St. John McClean. He was a most capable and efficient assistant."

Mr. McClean had been active in the civic advancement of Staten Island, New York. McClean avenue in New York city was named in his honor.

Surviving besides his wife are two half-sisters, Miss Olivia C. McClean, East Middle street, and Mrs. Mary M. Stock, Philadelphia.

College Debaters To Meet Colgate

Gettysburg will debate the negative side of the question and will be represented by Gerst Buyel and Kent Gilbert.

Two members of the team—George Barnett and George Hanawalt—argued the affirmative side of the question at Bucknell university this afternoon.

Joe Dice is manager of the college debaters and Robert Rhoads is publicity manager.

The public is invited to Thursday's debate.

Hit in Face by Brick as Brother Topples Chimney

"That chimney ought to be fixed," William Dayhoff, 76, Littlestown R. 2, told his brother, Earl, the other day. "Somebody it will fall and hurt somebody," he added.

So this morning about 8 o'clock, Earl, who also lives near Littlestown, decided to push over the loose chimney of the old springhouse at his farm. William looked on from the other side of the building.

The bricks came down—and one of them hit William in the face.

He was treated by Dr. H. S. Crouse, Littlestown, and brought to the Warner hospital where he received treatment for a compound fracture of his nose, a fracture of a face bone near his left eye and a severe gash under that eye. He returned home later this morning.

700 RUSSIANS ARE MISSING IN STEAMER WRECK

Wakkanai, Hokkaido Japan, Dec. 13 (AP)—More than 700 Russians, including women and children, were missing today and believed drowned or frozen to death in the wreck of the Russian steamer Indigirka on the treacherous coast of Hokkaido.

The Japanese ship Katsufu Maru arrived here with 395 survivors from the crowded Russian fishing service vessel which went aground in a blizzard Tuesday on the east coast of Hokkaido, northernmost of the main Japanese islands.

Survivors, most of whom were suffering from exposure, said the ship carried 700 fishermen many accompanied by wives and children and a crew of 39.

(The scene of the wreck is on one route between fishing stations on the Kamchatka peninsula and Vladivostok.)

Thief wrecks car and flees
State motor police here are seeking the man who first stole auto switch keys from the home of Mrs. H. L. Waller Gettysburg R. 3 near Mummaburg, and then removed her daughters' car from the garage Tuesday evening.

The car was found damaged later in the evening at the intersection of the Table Rock-Schriver's Crossroads road and the Goldenville road. The thief apparently had rolled the car over on its left side as he attempted to turn toward Goldenville from the Table Rock road.

Witnesses of the accident said a man crawled from the over-turned car and fled across a field disregarding their orders to halt. The car, owned by Mrs. Caroline Ruth Smelser, Main street, Arendtsville, was considerably damaged.

Officer C. W. Hamberger of the Gettysburg detail of the motor police who investigated said that a son of Mrs. Waller was at home alone and that the keys apparently had been taken from the unlocked house after he retired. His mother and sister had gone to Gettysburg.

Non-Resident Gives $25 for Xmas Baskets

A non-resident of Gettysburg today donated $25 to the Christmas Basket committee to help provide Christmas dinners for every needy family in Adams county.

The spirit which prompted the large contribution reveals the generous qualities of the individual who said:

"I do not want my name mentioned in connection with this donation. I always try to do something for unfortunate families, especially during the Christmas season. I like the way Gettysburg citizens are handling the Christmas basket idea this year and I want to help the cause. I think the committee is doing a splendid thing. Although I am not a resident of Gettysburg, I consider it a privilege to donate to this worthy effort."

The annual Adams county Y M C A meeting was held Tuesday evening in Hill's coffee shop, Chambersburg street, with delegations from Biglerville, Fairfield, Littlestown and East Berlin, as well as Gettysburg residents in attendance.

Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg college, a member of the state committee of the Y was present and spoke and acted as toastmaster.

Herbert Stroup, student president of College Y M C A, was present and spoke on the religious attitude of college students in America which he stated has greatly changed the last few years. In fact he said, only two per cent do not believe in God.

Dean Carey president of the Hi-Y club at Biglerville high school made a report of their work which last season enrolled more than a hundred boys and girls in Bible study. The club, he said, had helped school spirit and better sportsmanship.

Prof. Paul King had charge of the delegation from Littlestown. Charles E. Ford, Harrisburg state boys' work secretary of the Y M C A, reported the progress of boys work in co-operation with schools which had grown so that Pennsylvania leads the nation. He said that six hundred school boys and girls at Chambersburg are members of twelve Y M C A clubs.

The special guests of the evening were Joe Friday, a full-blooded Indian guide from the Temagami forest reserve in northern Ontario, province of Canada. The boys present were much interested in the stories told by the guide of hunting the giant moose and of fishing in the far northern region. Chief Friday told how the Indians lived in the open and gave the calls of many wild animals of the region. Arrangements have been made for Chief Friday to address the high school assemblies at both Littlestown and Biglerville on December 18.

While state and federal funds are used to supply daily needs of families on relief rolls and persons receiving other forms of assistance, there are many homes in the county where Christmas could be no different from other days unless some supplies gifts. Colonel J. L. Barton, executive director for the board said this morning.

The board on Tuesday afternoon reviewed three cases in which persons had offered excuses for failing to report for work on W. P. A. or relief-work projects. The reasons for not reporting were held by the board to be not valid and the persons involved were dropped from relief rolls.

The board appointed Robert P. Smith and Mrs. Maude Saby, members to study the question of legal responsibility of relatives in relief cases. The board studied several cases involving policies on that question. The policies of the state board are based upon the state support laws, a board spokesman said.

Approval was given on relief-work project No. 8 which provides for the employment of up to four men on upkeep work on Huntington township roads.

Little change was shown in the case loads for any of the forms of assistance rendered by the board during the last month. As of December 2 there were 214 general assistance cases including 717 persons, 394 persons receiving old age assistance, and 64 cases where aid to dependent children is being distributed to a total of 224 persons including 160 children.

Chairman James B. Aumen presided over the meeting which was attended by Mrs. Saby Gettysburg, L. W. Kuhn, Bendersville, and Robert P. Smith McSherrystown.

Musselman Company Host To County's Cherry Growers

Approximately 100 Adams county cherry growers and their wives were guests of the C. H. Musselman company, Biglerville, at the annual cherry growers' banquet Tuesday evening in the Bendersville community hall.

H. T. Hartman Adams county farm agent presided as toastmaster. Luther Baltzley, Gettysburg R. D. was awarded a gold watch as the commercial grower with the highest percentage of U. S. No. 1 grade cherries. The award is made only to those who grow large quantities of cherries for commercial use.

Gold watches previously were presented to the following: Daniel Sheely, Cashtown, 1936; A. B. C. Williams, York Springs, 1937, and John Sease, Orfina, 1938.

It was reported the crop grown by H. G. Haverslock, owned by the Musselman company was the best grade commercial crop in the county for 1939 but the grower was ineligible for an award inasmuch as the watch is given annually to a grower outside of the Musselman company organization.

John Ruff, of Penn State college, was the principal speaker. Several cherry trees were placed on the platform in front of the audience and Mr. Ruff used these for demonstrating the proper methods of pruning and advantages to be gained by proper care of trees.

Among other speakers were D. M. Wertz, prominent cherry grower from Waynesboro and W. N. McClung Berkeley county farm agent from Martinsburg West Virginia.

Entertainment was furnished by a group of York entertainers under the direction of William Ketteman.

Hit in Face by Brick as Brother Topples Chimney

"That chimney ought to be fixed," William Dayhoff, 76, Littlestown R. 2, told his brother, Earl, the other day. "Someday it will fall and hurt somebody," he added.

So this morning about 8 o'clock, Earl, who also lives near Littlestown, decided to push over the loose chimney of the old springhouse at his farm. William looked on from the other side of the building.

The bricks came down—and one of them hit William in the face.

He was treated by Dr. H. S. Crouse, Littlestown, and brought to the Warner hospital where he received treatment for a compound fracture of his nose, a fracture of a face bone near his left eye and a severe gash under that eye. He returned home later this morning.

700 RUSSIANS ARE MISSING IN STEAMER WRECK

Wakkanai, Hokkaido, Japan, Dec. 13 (AP)—More than 700 Russians, including women and children, were missing today and believed drowned or frozen to death in the wreck of the Russian steamer Indigirka on the treacherous coast of Hokkaido.

The Japanese ship Karafuto Maru arrived here with 395 survivors from the crowded Russian fishing service vessel which went aground in a blizzard Tuesday on the east coast of Hokkaido, northernmost of the main Japanese islands.

Survivors, most of whom were suffering from exposure, said the ship carried 700 fishermen, many accompanied by wives and children, and a crew of 39.

(The scene of the wreck is on one route between fishing stations on the Kamchatka peninsula and Vladivostok.)

THIEF WRECKS CAR AND FLEES

State motor police here are seeking the man who first stole auto switch keys from the home of Mrs. H. L. Walter, Gettysburg R. 3, near Munnasburg, and then removed her daughter's car from the garage, Tuesday evening.

The car was found damaged later in the evening at the intersection of the Table Rock-Schriver's Crossroads road and the Goldenville road. The thief apparently had rolled the car over on its left side as he attempted to turn toward Goldenville from the Table Rock road.

Witnesses of the accident said a man crawled from the over-turned car and fled across a field disregarding their orders to halt. The car, owned by Mrs. Caroline Ruth Smelser, Main street, Arendtsville, was considerably damaged.

Officer C. W. Hamberger, of the Gettysburg detail of the motor police, who investigated, said that a son of Mrs. Walter was at home alone and that the keys apparently had been taken from the unlocked house after he retired. His mother and sister had gone to Gettysburg.

Non-Resident Gives $25 for Xmas Baskets

A "non-resident of Gettysburg" today donated $25 to the Christmas Basket committee to help provide Christmas dinners for every needy family in Adams county.

The spirit which prompted the large contribution reveals the generous qualities of the individual who said:

"I do not want my name mentioned in connection with this donation. I always try to do something for unfortunate families, especially during the Christmas season. I like the way Gettysburg citizens are handling the Christmas basket idea this year and I want to help the cause. I think the committee is doing a splendid thing. Although I am not a resident of Gettysburg I consider it a privilege to donate to this worthy effort."

RELIEF BOARD ENDORSES PLAN TO HELP NEEDY

Members of the Adams County Board of Public Assistance who already have supplied long lists of families that would appreciate a basket of food at Christmas time, formally endorsed at a regular meeting Tuesday afternoon the program of the Christmas Basket committee recently organized here.

"While state and federal funds are used to supply daily needs of families on relief rolls and persons receiving other forms of assistance, there are many homes in the county where Christmas could be no different from other days unless some one supplies gifts," Colonel J. L. Barton, executive director for the board, said this morning.

The board on Tuesday afternoon reviewed three cases in which persons had offered excuses for failing to report for work on W.P.A. or relief-work projects. The reasons for not reporting were held by the board to be not valid and the persons involved were dropped from relief rolls.

The board appointed Robert P. Smith and Mrs. Maude Saby, members, to study the question of legal responsibility of relatives in relief cases. The board studied several cases involving policies on that question. The policies of the state board are based upon the state's support laws, a board spokesman said.

Approval was given on relief-work project No. 8 which provides for the employment of up to four men on upkeep work on Huntington township roads.

Little change was shown in the case loads for any of the forms of assistance rendered by the board during the last month. As of December 2 there were 214 general assistance cases including 717 persons; 394 persons receiving old age assistance, and 64 cases, where aid to dependent children is being distributed to a total of 224 persons including 160 children.

Chairman James B. Aumen presided over the meeting which was attended by Mrs. Saby, Gettysburg; L. W. Kuhn, Bendersville, and Robert P. Smith, McSherrytown.

WOMEN'S UNIT TO RAISE $2500 AS ITS SHARE OF CHAPEL FUND

At a well-attended meeting of the Gettysburg branch of the Women's League of Gettysburg college on Tuesday afternoon, plans were made for a campaign to raise $2,500, the local unit's share in the cost of the $200,000 chapel to be erected at the college. Mrs. Dunning Idle, president of the Gettysburg league, presided over the meeting which was held in the Sunday school rooms of Christ Lutheran church.

Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, college president, described the proposed building to be placed near the geographical center of the campus. He revealed that approximately $75,000, nearly half of it in cash, already is on hand for the new building. Donations to date range from 50 cents to $30,000, he said.

Reviewing the building program at the college during the 17 years of his administration, Doctor Hanson said he had seen the erection of the Plank Memorial gymnasium, the science hall, the library, the construction of the new athletic field and the enlargement of the campus. He saw as the "supreme climax" of that program the erection of a "house of God dedicated to the purpose of showing to the students and the world the place religion has in education at Gettysburg college."

Cornerstone From Holy Land
Unless war complications prevent, he disclosed, the cornerstone will be brought from the Holy Land, wood from the cedars of Lebanon and some material from every land in which there is an alumnus of the college to enter into the structure of the chapel.

As she presented Doctor Hanson to the league members, Mrs. Idle read the special aim of the general league, adopted at its annual convention in November, which calls for the gathering of 25,000 names at $1 each to be inscribed on a parchment and placed in the cornerstone of the new chapel. The local league's quota of that sum is $2,500.

PIGS GO TO TOWN

Bloomington, Pa., Dec. 12 (AP) — Farmer David Leighow, of nearby

Catawissa, was mystified for weeks by the failure of a Holstein cow to give milk. He investigated and found seven young pigs running in the same field had taken a fancy to Holstein milk.

HIDE AND SEEK
Osceola Mills, Pa., Dec. 12 (AP) — Playing hide and seek with a thief is the experience of garage mechanic Harrison Railing. He first located his stolen automobile in a field Monday but had to go back to the garage for a key. The car was missing again when he returned. Carrying the extra key, Railing later discovered the machine near Curwensville.

dress Mrs. Idle revealed plans for the raising of that sum by the Gettysburg branch. Present plans call for the formation of 15 groups each charged with securing its share of the names.

10 Members Added

Mrs. Frank Kramer has been placed in general charge of the campaign to raise the $2,500 through the listing of that number of names. The campaign is to begin on February 13, the date of the next meeting of the Gettysburg branch, and continue until March 12.

The Gettysburg unit of the general league added 10 new members to Tuesday's session. The new members are Mrs. P. D. Thomas, Mrs. C. C. Trostle, Mrs. R. S. Hoke, Mrs. Austin Kelly, Mrs. I. C. Bucher, Mrs. James B. Goynne, Mrs. Hugh C. McIlhenny, Mrs. J. C. Donley, Mrs. Radford Lippy and Miss Betty Swope.

Mrs. Gilbert Reen reported on the tea and musical her committee conducted last month at the Women's division building at the college at which a total of $85 was cleared.

A report on the annual convention of the general league was given by Mrs. Henry T. Bream, secretary of the Gettysburg branch.

Tentative plans for the annual Women's league play to be given by the Gettysburg branch were announced for the first or second week of April.

Mrs. Earl J. Bowman, chairman of the membership committee, reported upon recent meetings of that group and plans for future activities.

The program for the Tuesday afternoon session was in charge of Mrs. Hanson who presented Mrs. Austin Fellenbaum, an alumna of the college in the class of 1921 and now second vice president of the general league. She spoke interestingly of "The Psychology of the Child," relating her experiences in conducting a kindergarten for 35 children and a Bible school in Lancaster. "Discipline makes a child happy," she said.

Mrs. Henry M. Schaff sang "The Thirsty Child" and "The Martyr," accompanied by Mrs. Reen.

Herbert Stroup, student president of the Student Christian association on the campus, conducted the opening devotions on a theme appropriate to the Christmas season. The meeting was closed with the singing of the "Alma Mater." A social hour followed.

The meeting room was attractively decorated with a Christmas tree, evergreens and red roses.

Name Feature Hostesses

Nearly 100 persons attended the meeting and were served refreshments by these associate hostesses: Mrs. Schaff, Mrs. Reen, Mrs. Hanson, Mrs. Carrie Stauffer, Mrs. Earl Zeigler, Mrs. Russell Moul, Mrs. Karl Grimm, Mrs. W. G. Weaver, Mrs. Robert Miller and Mrs. John S. Rice.

The hostesses for the February meeting will be Miss Louise Bender, Mrs. A. H. Barr, Mrs. A. A. Hughes, Mrs. H. B. Bender, Mrs. John Mumpfer, Miss Maude Whiteleather, Mrs. D. R. Heiges, Mrs. J. M. Bender, Mrs. J. J. Hill and Mrs. Marie Zeigler.

Farm Calendar

Timely Reminders for Adams County Farmers From State College Specialists.

A sound feeding program for laying hens calls for a complete and well-balanced ration, a workable feeding system, and a skilled manager, poultry specialists have found. Satisfactory production cannot be expected if the ration, the system or the person doing the feeding is faulty.

Farm Woodlots

The amount of farmland in timber in Pennsylvania is increasing annually. Forestry specialists remind farmers planning to expand their woodlots that now is the time to order trees for planting next spring.

New Fruit Class

A new feature in the fruit division at the state farm show this winter will be the commercial class for eastern boxes of 1 1/5 to 1 1/8 bushel capacity, report fruit experts at Penn State. The class will make possible an excellent presentation of the quality of Pennsylvania's apples as they reach the market.

Oats for Laying Hens

Many Pennsylvania poultrymen have found that permitting the fowls access to a hopper of oats in the laying pen largely prevents pecking and feather pulling, poultry extension specialists report.

Growing Greenhouse Tomatoes

Growers of greenhouse tomatoes select varieties that produce fruits uniform in size, smooth, free from cracks, and that give large yields. Demonstrations indicate that Michigan State Forcing and Long Chalyx Forcing are among the best, vegetable specialists say.

Burning Wood

Penn State foresters say that a cord of dry hickory ironwood, black locust, or white oak has as much or greater fuel value than a ton of good grade soft coal.

WAGNER ACT IS ATTACKED BY UNION LEADER

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—An AFL union leader asserted today that 80,000 coal miners have been denied their rights under the Wagner labor act and have been forced against their will to join the C.I.O.

Joe Ozanic, president of the Progressive Miners of the American Federation of Labor, told the house committee investigating the act and the National Labor Relations board: "Approximately 80,000 mine workers in various coal fields have been denied their moral and legal rights under the provisions of the national labor relations act to belong to an organization of their own choosing, and these mine workers were, against their desires, being compelled by their employers and officials of the C.I.O.-U.M.W.A. (United Mine Workers of America) to join and pay dues to the United Mine Workers of America as a condition of their continued employment."

Edmund M. Toland, committee counsel, opened the third day's hearing by reviewing congressional debate on the Wagner act in an effort to show that congress intended that the board would not have authority to choose the same bargaining unit for separated plants of a single company.

William M. Leiserson, one of the three board members, had said Tuesday that the policy of the other two members on this point "doesn't make sense to me." Chairman J. Warren Madden and Edwin S. Smith, member, have in some instances certified all of a company's employees as a single bargaining unit despite their division among several plants.

As the hearing began, 15 representatives of the Progressive Mine Workers (A.F.L.) filed into the room and took front row seats. One of two negroes in the group was dressed in a miner's outfit, from headlamp to overalls and heavy shoes.

SWISS RIFLEMEN GO GUNNING FOR BEAR

Zurich, Switzerland, (AP)—Members of the crack Swiss rifle team which won the International Rifle Meet at Helsingfors, Finland, in 1937, were called to the Zurich zoo recently to shoot their own trophy.

The prize they brought back in 1937 was a Finnish brown bear cub. They presented it to the zoo where it shared quarters with three Swiss brown bears and a polar bear. Recently the Finn grew combative and mauled his Swiss and Arctic companions so ferociously that zoo officials called in the rifle team to execute it. The culprit has been stuffed and sent to the National Rifle Museum in Berne to be exhibited with other Swiss shooting trophies.

WELL WALK, IF YOU PLEASE

St. Gallen, Switzerland, (AP)—St. Gallen Aero Club operates a mountain skipping ski plane for skiers only.

Their special plane leaves airports near the railroad and main commercial air lines and skims across snow-covered Alps which few commercial planes would risk crossing to the ski resorts of the Engadine.

It is equipped with landing skis and has room only for the pilot, two passengers and three pairs of skis. The extra pair is for the pilot—just in case.

The plane's top speed is 180 k. p. h. (112 m. p. h.) and it can land on any flat stretch of ground over 40 yards in length—which is a good thing in Alpine country.

CHAMP

Lynchburg, Va.—This city, where Thomas Edison taught the public that the tomato was good to eat, now boasts a tomato-growing champion. W. E. Martin, the champ, produced a tomato plant which grew to a height of 12 feet in his back yard.

LEAGUE INVITES NATIONS TO GIVE AID TO FINLAND

Geneva, Dec. 13 (AP)—A 13-nation committee of the League of Nations today adopted a resolution condemning Russia as an aggressor and containing an implied demand that Russia be ousted from the league for invading Finland.

The resolution, which was then submitted to the league assembly, which may act on it tonight, incorporated a report drawn up by a sub-committee "inviting" league members to give Finland all possible aid.

In addition it suggested that non-member nations such as the United States might be asked to join in helping Finland if the League of Nations council desires.

The report now goes to a special 13-nation committee considering the Russian-Finnish conflict before being submitted to the league assembly and then to the council.

Recommend Aid for Finland

Approval of the part naming Russia an aggressor and suggesting aid to Finland seemed certain since only a majority vote of the assembly is necessary. Action on expulsion of a member requires a unanimous council vote.

The sub-committee also condemned Russia as a violator of the league covenant and recommended putting the entire technical staff of the league—its economic, health and financial experts—at Finland's disposal.

Argentina led the way to a showdown on the expulsion with the threat she would resign, if the Soviet Union remained a member. To become effective, the ouster proposal must have the unanimous support of the league council, meeting tonight or Thursday.

Rodolfo Freyre, Argentine delegate, told the assembly his government's decision to resign is "unalterable" so long as Russia is a member.

His address was heard after the assembly learned officially of Russia's refusal to accept the league's offer to mediate her war with Finland.

Says Soviet Violated Covenant

"The league has no doubt lost all coercive force," Freyre declared, "but there still is one gesture that it has to make, one gesture that it cannot refuse to make, unless it is prepared to resign its function in the spirit of a truly suicidal defeat."

Freyre declared the Soviet Union had violated the league covenant and her non-aggression pact with Finland.

This, he declared, "constitutes a veritable challenge to the league and is an insult to all governments of which it is composed."

"The question now before us is whether we are going to continue to allow the perpetrator of this act of aggression to sit among us."

Finland was one of three nations elected today to the league council, of which the U.S.S.R. also is a member.

Finland and the Union of South Africa were new members named to the body of 15. Bolivia, the third nation named for a three-year term, was re-elected.

Presbyterian S. S. Teachers Hold Meet

The resignation of Mrs. Grant Reigle, East Middle street, as superintendent of the Cradle Roll department and a teacher in the beginners' department of the Gettysburg Presbyterian Sunday school was accepted with regret at the monthly meeting of the officers and teachers of the school Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Ross R. Myers, Howard street. Superintendent E. Donald Scott presided.

Mrs. Reigle's position was not filled. Mr. and Mrs. Reigle and their two daughters will move early next month to West Chester.

The following were appointed to decorate the church for the annual Christmas program: Jack Robertson, the Rev. and Mrs. Seth C. Morrow, Mr. and Mrs. John K. Lott, Clayton Warman, Hugh C. McIlhenny, Anna and Allen Larson and Robert Myers.

Mrs. George Hammie resigned as teacher of the high school class and G. Kenneth Newbould was elected to serve in her place.

Fourteen persons attended the meeting. Refreshments were served.

Ambassador Davies Predicts Long War

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—Joseph E. Davies, American ambassador to Belgium, told reporters today after conferring with Secretary Hull that "nothing short of a miracle can prevent the European war from being a long and bitter one."

He would not predict how many years were signified by the word "long."

Ambassador Davies was called back to Washington by President Roosevelt to confer with the State department on negotiations for a new trade agreement with Belgium.

Asked about reports that President Roosevelt was considering him for the cabinet post of secretary of the Navy, to take the place of the late Claude Swanson, Davies said: "There's nothing to it."

GETTING AWAY FROM IT ALL

Morris, Tenn. (AP)—Taking a house apart from under a burning roof is one way to save it from fire. CCC youths near here found a house burning—and the well dry. "Take 'er down," yelled one. So they carried out furniture, took out window frames, ripped off weather stripping and unhinged doors. "We missed a couple of windows," said one of the youths. "If we'd had tools, we could have saved more of that weather stripping."

LEAGUE FACES 'LIFE OR DEATH' IN SOVIET ISSUE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer

Moscow having rejected the offer of mediation in the Russo-Finnish war, the League of Nations has on its hands a grave problem in the Argentine motion for expulsion of the Soviet Union.

There is danger from both from the standpoint of the European war crisis and from that of the league itself.

Rodolfo Freyre, of the Argentine, in urging expulsion, declared the league was "faced with an issue of life or death." It could throw Russia out, or "resign its function in the spirit of truly suicidal defeat."

It is a tough spot, since the league will be damned if it does, and damned if it doesn't. It will lose at least one important member whichever way the voting goes, since the Argentine has said it will resign if the motion is defeated.

Should the league expel Russia, it will be the first time such drastic action has been taken against any country.

In 1935 the league applied sanctions to Italy as aggressor against Ethiopia, though less than three years later the league council gave members permission to recognize Mussolini's annexation of the African kingdom. Again in 1937 the league condemned Japan on a charge of bombing open towns in China.

Expulsion would brand the accused as an outlaw in the eyes of the other member nations.

The reaction on the outlaw certainly would be one of bitterness and possibly of violence. World condemnation means the same to a nation as does community condemnation to the individual.

The point of the Russian suggestion about breaking off relations with Britain and France is that the allies accused of using the league for ulterior purposes.

This isn't the first time such a charge has been leveled at the Anglo-French brotherhood. Germany has been severe in its allegations that these two great powers have been playing international politics with the league machinery—using the small nations as cat's paws in supporting "imperialistic" schemes. Many Japanese have taken a similar position.

However that may be, and whatever may be the league action, there is this much to be said now:

If Russia persists in its thrusts for power which have been in evidence since Hitler's invasion of Poland, it is bound to clash with Britain and France sooner or later.

England and France don't propose to see either Russia or Germany dominate Europe. The war with Hitler is being fought on that basis.

And so, if Russia has any such ambition it will in turn be challenged. If the clash doesn't come now it quite likely will be a sequel to the Hitlerian war, provided the allies are successful in that.

YANKEES PICKED FOR '39'S SPORT TITLE; IOWA 2ND

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—The boss always said to put the news at the top of the story, so this first paragraph is hardly the place to tell you the country's sports experts picked the New York Yankees of baseball the No. 1 team of all 1939 sports.

Rather, it's the spot to explain that the experts balloting in the ninth annual Associated Press poll had a tough time deciding whether Iowa's comebacking football Hawkeyes, or the undefeated teams of Southern California, Tennessee and Cornell, rates the No. 2 slot. They finally gave it to Iowa, with 37½ points to 34 for the Pacific coast conference champions; 33 for the other half of the Rose Bowl, Tennessee, and 28 for Cornell.

Yet the combined vote for these four gridiron powers was only slightly more than half the total the Yankees rolled up in winning recognition as "outstanding team of the year, amateur or professional" for the fourth straight year, just as easily as they skyrocketed to their fourth-straight world championship with a woeful walloping of the Cincinnati Reds in October.

Sixty-one of the 79 experts who cast ballots from all parts of the country picked the Yankees as undisputed No. 1 team. Another split his ticket between the Yankees and the Hawkeyes. Thirteen others put the Yankees in second place. There were only four who didn't mention them.

On a basis of three points for a first-place nomination, two for second and one for third, the Yankees ran up the tremendous total of 211½ points for the most top-sided edge in the nine-year history of the Associated Press poll.

Of the 17 first-place selections in which the Yankees did not figure this year, seven went to Iowa's footballers, two to Southern California, three to Tennessee, two to Cornell and one each to the basketball teams of Oregon and Ohio State and to the footballers of Pennsylvania State college.

The voting:

New York Yankees, baseball 67½
U. of Iowa, football 57½
U. of So. California, football 27
U. of Tennessee, football 26
Cornell U., football 26
Texas A. & M., football 18

May Create New Pa. National Guard Units

Harrisburg, Dec. 13 (AP)—Pennsylvania's citizen army may be augmented by creation of new combat and service units. If the next congress provides the money, Major General Edward Martin disclosed today.

At the same time, communities that now lack a National Guard unit may be assigned troops in the further expansion, the adjutant general and commander of the 28th division announced.

"About 30 communities have asked for National Guard organizations," Martin said. A requisite is that they have facilities to house the troops and safeguard their equipment.

In the midst of the Pennsylvania Guard's current expansion from a strength of about 10,000 men to approximately 12,000, Martin said organization of more corps and Army units is contemplated. Such units are integral parts of an Army corps, a group of two or more divisions, or a field army, a group of two or more corps. The War department now is filing-out the organization of these larger troop units.

"Santa Lucias" Greet Yuletide In Swedish Homes

Philadelphia, Dec. 13 (AP)—Fair-haired maidens wearing white robes and crowns of lighted candles made magic-like appearances in many of America's Swedish homes today—heralding the advent of the Christmas season.

As dawn crept through windows, these modern "Santa Lucias" went joyously from room to room awakening sleepers in a rite almost as old as Christianity itself.

Each young woman—the youngest and fairest of the household—brought steaming coffee and cakes to members of the family and guests assembled to greet Santa Lucia day with them.

In Philadelphia, in Minnesota's twin cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul and in other Swedish communities the country over, the colorful ceremony ushered in a month-long observance of the Yuletide.

Rich in folk-lore, merriment and solemnity, it will reach a climax Christmas eve.

As in the Scandinavian countries, the Santa Lucia rite—borrowed from Italy—commemorates the martyrdom of a fourth century saint.

An old Roman legend tells about a young girl—Lucia—who blinded herself as a martyr to Christianity. Her lover, a pagan, was so impressed he became converted to her faith—and her sight was restored.

For many Swedes in America, Christmas still retains much of the tradition brought from the old world by Swedish settlers who began colonizing the Delaware river some 50 years before the coming of William Penn and his bands.

A scene of unusual Yuletide activity in Philadelphia still is Gloria Dei (Old Swedes) church, founded by the Swedish settlers in 1677. There the pageantry is re-enacted each year—highlighted always by distribution of gifts by "Tomtego-bars"—little Swedish Santa Clauses.

YANKEES PICKED FOR '39'S SPORT TITLE; IOWA 2ND

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—The boss always said to put the news at the top of the story, so this first paragraph is hardly the place to tell you the country's sports experts picked the New York Yankees of baseball the No. 1 team of all 1939 sports.

Rather, it's the spot to explain that the experts balloting in the ninth annual Associated Press poll had a tough time deciding whether Iowa's comebacking football Hawkeyes, or the undefeated teams of Southern California, Tennessee and Cornell, rates the No. 2 slot. They finally gave it to Iowa, with 37½ points to 34 for the Pacific coast conference champions; 33 for the other half of the Rose Bowl, Tennessee, and 26 for Cornell.

Yet the combined vote for these four gridiron powers was only slightly more than half the total the Yankees rolled up in winning recognition as "outstanding team of the year, amateur or professional," for the fourth straight year, just as easily as they skyrocketed to their fourth straight world championship with a woeful wallowing of the Cincinnati Reds in October.

Sixty-one of the 79 experts who cast ballots from all parts of the country picked the Yankees as undisputed No. 1 team. Another split his ticket between the Yankees and the Hawkeyes. Thirteen others put the Yankees in second place. There were only four who didn't mention them.

On a basis of three points for a first-place nomination, two for second and one for third, the Yankees ran up the tremendous total of 211½ points for the most lop-sided edge in the nine-year history of the Associated Press poll.

Of the 17 first-place selections in which the Yankees did not figure this year, seven went to Iowa's footballers, two to Southern California, three to Tennessee, two to Cornell and one each to the basketball teams of Oregon and Ohio State and to the footballers of Pennsylvania State college.

The voting:
New York Yankees, baseball 81½ 211½
U. of Iowa, football 7½ 37½
U. of So. California, football 2 34
U. of Tennessee, football 3 33
Cornell U., football 2 26

May Create New Pa. National Guard Units

Harrisburg, Dec. 13 (AP)—Pennsylvania's citizen army may be augmented by creation of new combat and service units. If the next congress provides the money, Major General Edward Martin disclosed today.

At the same time, communities that now lack a National Guard unit may be assigned troops in the further expansion, the adjutant general and commander of the 28th division announced.

"About 30 communities have asked for National Guard organizations," Martin said. A requisite is that they have facilities to house the troops and safeguard their equipment.

In the midst of the Pennsylvania Guard's current expansion from a strength of about 10,000 men to approximately 12,000, Martin said organization of more corps and Army units is contemplated. Such units are integral parts of an Army corps, a group of two or more divisions, or a field army, a group of two or more corps. The War department now is filling-out the organization of these larger troop units.

"Santa Lucias" Greet Yuletide In Swedish Homes

Philadelphia, Dec. 13 (AP)—Fair-haired maidens wearing white robes and crowns of lighted candles made magic-like appearances in many of America's Swedish homes today—heralding the advent of the Christmas season.

As dawn crept through windows, these modern "Santa Lucias" went joyously from room to room awakening sleepers in a rite almost as old as Christianity itself.

Each young woman—the youngest and fairest of the household—brought steaming coffee and cakes to members of the family and guests assembled to greet Santa Lucia day with them.

In Philadelphia, in Minnesota's two cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul and in other Swedish communities the country over, the colorful ceremony ushered in a month-long observance of the Yuletide.

Rich in folk-lore, merriment and solemnity, it will reach a climax Christmas eve.

As in the Scandinavian countries, the Santa Lucia rite—borrowed from Italy—commemorates the martyrdom of a fourth century saint.

An old Roman legend tells about a young girl—Lucia—who blinded herself as a martyr to Christianity. Her lover, a pagan, was so impressed he became converted to her faith—and her sight was restored.

Suspected of Murder In Five Auto Deaths

Los Angeles, Dec. 13 (AP)—Protesting his innocence, Laurel H. Crawford, 41, a World War veteran, is held on suspicion of murder in the deaths of five persons.

Crawford alone escaped when his automobile, containing his wife, their three children and a friend, plunged 1,000 feet down a canyon side on the road from Mount Wilson observatory Monday night.

Deputy Sheriff Paul Mahoney said Crawford carried a total of $40,500 in life and accident insurance on members of his family.

"It's all my fault," cried Crawford. "I shouldn't have been driving the car. It had bad brakes and the old gear box was in bad shape."

The victims were Mrs. Elva Ruth Crawford, 41; Alice, 15; Paul, 10; Helen, 8, and Ralph Barnett, 61, a lodger at the Crawford home.

LEAGUE INVITES NATIONS TO GIVE AID TO FINLAND

Geneva, Dec. 12 (AP)—A 13-nation committee of the League of Nations today adopted a resolution condemning Russia as an aggressor and containing an implied demand that Russia be ousted from the league for invading Finland.

The resolution, which was then submitted to the league assembly, which may act on it tonight, incorporated a report drawn up by a sub-committee "inviting" league members to give Finland all possible aid.

In addition it suggested that non-member nations such as the United States might be asked to join in helping Finland if the League of Nations council desires.

The report now goes to a special 13-nation committee considering the Russian-Finnish conflict before being submitted to the league assembly and then to the council.

Recommendations Aid to Finland

Approval of the part naming Russia an aggressor and suggesting aid to Finland seemed certain since only a majority vote of the assembly is necessary. Action on expulsion of a member requires a unanimous council vote.

The sub-committee also condemned Russia as a violator of the league covenant and recommended putting the entire technical staff of the league—its economic, health and financial experts—at Finland's disposal.

Argentina led the way to a showdown on the expulsion with the threat she would resign, if the Soviet Union remained a member. To become effective, the ouster proposal must have the unanimous support of the league council, meeting tonight or Thursday.

Rodolfo Freyre, Argentine delegate, told the assembly his government's decision to resign is "unalterable" so long as Russia is a member.

His address was heard after the assembly learned officially of Russia's refusal to accept the league's offer to mediate her war with Finland.

Says Soviet Violated Covenant

"The league has no doubt lost all coercive force," Freyre declared, "but there still is one gesture that it cannot refuse to make, unless it is prepared to resign its function in the spirit of a truly suicidal defeat."

Freyre declared the Soviet Union had violated the league covenant, and her non-aggression pact with Finland.

This, he declared, "constitutes a veritable challenge to the league and is an insult to all governments of which it is composed."

"The question now before us is whether we are going to continue to allow the perpetrator of this act of aggression to sit among us."

Finland was one of three nations elected today to the league council, of which the U.S.S.R. also is a member.

Finland and the Union of South Africa were new members named to the body of 15. Bolivia, the third nation named for a three-year term, was re-elected.

JUSTICE

Mercer, Pa., Dec. 13 (AP)—After scoring a jury for acquitting a man accused of drunken driving, Judge George H. Rowley announced the usual two months jail sentence would be suspended for persons who pleaded guilty to such charges this term of court and paid fines and costs.

GETTING AWAY FROM IT ALL

Morris, Tenn. (AP)—Taking a house apart from under a burning roof is one way to save it from fire. CCC youths near here found a house burning and the well dry. "Take 'er down," yelled one. So they carried out furniture, took out window frames, ripped off weather stripping and unhinged doors.

"We missed a couple of windows," said one of the youths. "If we'd had tools, we could have saved more of that weather stripping."

LEAGUE FACES 'LIFE OR DEATH' IN SOVIET ISSUE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer

Moscow having rejected the offer of mediation in the Russo-Finnish war, the League of Nations has on its hands a grave problem in the Argentine motion for expulsion of the Soviet Union.

There is danger from both from the standpoint of the European war crisis and from that of the league itself.

Rodolfo Freyre, of the Argentine, in urging expulsion, declared the league was "faced with an issue of life or death." It could throw Russia out, or "resign its function in the spirit of truly suicidal defeat."

It is a tough spot, since the league will be damned if it does, and damned if it doesn't. It will lose at least one important member whichever way the voting goes, since the Argentine has said it will resign if the motion is defeated.

Should the league expel Russia, it will be the first time such drastic action has been taken against any country.

In 1935 the league applied sanctions to Italy as aggressor against Ethiopia, though less than three years later the league council gave members permission to recognize Mussolini's annexation of the African kingdom. Again in 1937 the league condemned Japan on a charge of bombing open towns in China.

Expulsion would brand the accused as an outcast in the eyes of the other member nations.

The reaction on the outlaw certainly would be one of bitterness and possibly of violence. World condemnation means the same to a nation as does community condemnation to the individual.

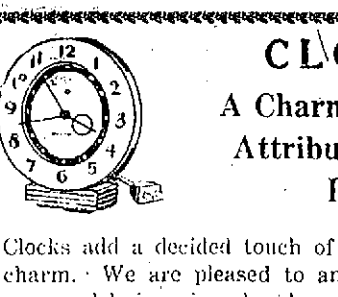

The point of the Russian suggestion about breaking off relations with Britain and France is that the allies accused of using the league for ulterior purposes.

This isn't the first time such a charge has been leveled at the Anglo-French brotherhood. Germany has been severe in its allegations that these two great powers have been playing international politics with the league machinery—using the small nations as cat's paws in supporting "imperialistic" schemes. Many Japanese have taken a similar position.

However that may be, and whatever may be the league action, there is this much to be said now: If Russia persists in its thrusts for power which have been in evidence since Hitler's invasion of Poland, it is bound to clash with Britain and France sooner or later.

England and France don't propose to see either Russia or Germany dominate Europe. The war with Hitler is being fought on that basis.

And so, if Russia has any such ambition it will in turn be challenged. If the clash doesn't come now it quite likely will be a sequel to the Hitlerian war, provided the allies are successful in that.

Presbyterian S. S. Teachers Hold Meet

The resignation of Mrs. Grant Reigle, East Middle street, as superintendent of the Cradle Roll department and a teacher in the beginners' department of the Gettysburg Presbyterian Sunday school was accepted with regret at the monthly meeting of the officers and teachers of the school Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Ross R. Myers, Howard street. Superintendent E. Donald Scott presided.

Mrs. Reigle's position was not filled. Mr. and Mrs. Reigle and their two daughters will move early next month to West Chester.

The following were appointed to decorate the church for the annual Christmas program: Jack Robertson, the Rev. and Mrs. Seth C. Morrow, Mr. and Mrs. John K. Loti, Clayton Warman, Hugh C. McIlhenny, Anna and Allen Larson and Robert Myers.

Mrs. George Humme resigned as teacher of the high school class and G. Kenneth Newbold was elected to serve in her place.

Fourteen persons attended the meeting. Refreshments were served.

Ambassador Davies Predicts Long War

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—Joseph E. Davies, American ambassador to Belgium, told reporters today after conferring with Secretary Hull that "nothing short of a miracle can prevent the European war from being a long and bitter one."

He would not predict how many years were signified by the word "long."

Ambassador Davies was called back to Washington by President Roosevelt to confer with the State department on negotiations for a new trade agreement with Belgium.

Asked about reports that President Roosevelt was considering him for the cabinet post of secretary of the Navy, to take the place of the late Claude Swanson, Davies said: "There's nothing to it."

LEARNING

I like the sort of learning that tells of birds and flowers

And all the countless splendors that fill this earth of ours,

But Oh, I fear the wisdom that must the time employ

To fashion dreadful engines to slaughter and destroy.

All learning should be gentle and all
we learn should end

In making man the richer to be to all a friend.

Each mystery discovered should better what we build,

And make us all the wiser, our hands a bit more skilled.

Why must our boasted culture be turned to vicious things,

To spreading desolation and death with flying wings?

And why must all our wisdom, our genius and our skill,

Be bent to serve men's hatreds; to ruin and to kill?

Leningrad Churches

Used as Hospitals

Moscow, Dec. 13 (AP)—Churches in Leningrad were converted into military hospitals today as a steady stream of Red army casualties from the Finnish fronts overtaxed the city's regular hospital facilities.

While Tass, Soviet official news agency, distributed without comment Russia's rejection of the League of Nations' mediation offer in the Finnish dispute, newspapers gave glowing reports that Finns welcomed their Russian "liberators"
in the army-occupied sections.

Workers in the United States,
Britain and Sweden, the newspapers said, welcomed the new communist-headed Finnish "people's government" set up at the border village of Terijoki.

On the diplomatic front, speculation was aroused by the arrival of Dr. Joseph Tiso, president of Slovakia, on an undisclosed mission.

A Red army communique reported Tuesday troops occupied two Finnish villages and the railroad station of a third. The advance was reported to have reached Markarvi, seven miles southwest of Salla and 45 miles within the frontier of central Finland.

The army announced the occupation of Huntilla (Huunnukka), about 30 miles from the Soviet border on the north bank of Lake Ladoga.

THIEF IN THE HAND

York, Pa., Dec. 13 (AP)—A little amateur detective work by Paul Sultner produced results—but not for long. Finding several chisels in his yard, Sultner armed himself and kept watch for a would-be housebreaker he was sure would return. His hunch was right. He captured an intruder and marched him toward police headquarters at pistol point. But Sultner's prisoner knocked the gun from his hand and escaped.

ARM OF THE LAW

Bethlehem, Pa., Dec. 13 (AP)—Souvenir-hunters miscalculated when they tried to snatch a "cop" guarding a public Christmas tree. The "cop" was made of concrete and all the would-be abductors got was one arm.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

EMPTY HOURS

I HAVE just finished reading a small book about the late E. V. Lucas, the English writer and publisher, by his daughter. I had to send to England for it, and I am glad I did, for it gave me a clearer picture of a man whose writings I have long enjoyed.

Lucas was a great student of Charles Lamb, and wrote the best life that has been written of him. Also, to his credit, are dozens of interesting small books of essays. He lived a busy life and had interesting friends, but what impressed me most in his daughter's story was his energy and the interest that he took in making every hour of the day count for something. He hated empty hours.

The ordinary human being doesn't realize how many hours pass him by without even a greeting from him! And they are gone forever. They never come back.

When I listen to someone else give information I should be able to give, I say to myself that he filled the hour that I let pass empty. To have knowledge is not only power—but fun, as well! The better the background of a man's mind, the more readily is he able to grasp, and understand, events as they appear each day. If you know the past of a man, or a nation, you have something upon which to base a present opinion.

I often think of W. Robertson Nicoll, who was once editor of "The British Weekly." So greatly did he give himself to his paper that J. M.
Barrie once said: "He came stalking out of all the pages, meeting every reader face to face." He read thousands of books quickly and intelligently. But the big thing about him was that he was forever encouraging others, especially beginners in writing, and when he had gone from this earth, Barrie said of him: "We will miss him most of all, remembering his thousand kindnesses, his glorious enthusiasms, and the passion of his soul." No empty hours ever left him.

What a grand hour is the last of the day, before retiring! In it may be placed many a happy memory of conversation or reading. Some bedside book should always be handily placed. The last hour of your day should mirror your happiest experiences, and be filled as well with thoughts of gratitude for every blessing.

One Is Beloved

BY FRANCES SHELLEY WEES

YESTERDAY: Sue is deeply shocked when Bob breaks the news to her that Allen has married one of the secretaries in his firm without telling her.

Chapter Nine

PATSY

BOB put his hands on her shoulders and gripped them close.

"If you let Allen down now, you'll never forgive yourself. Think how good he's been to you all these years!

Think how he must dread this first meeting between you and his wife—
far more than you are dreading it.
Sweet, believe me! Anyway, it's got to be gone through whether you like it or not. It's up to you to make it a flop or—or something old Allen has a right to expect when he brings his bride home."

She was still for a long moment, her small shoulders lax and drooping in his grasp. Then she freed herself, said with quiet dignity:
"Thank you, Bob! I'll behave now."

A quarter of an hour later she left her bedroom at the sound of the opening door. She had changed to a trailing frock of dull red silk whose brief puffed sleeves and round neck exposed her white arms and throat. Bright color burned in her cheeks, and her eyes were very dark and starry.

"Sue, this is my wife!" Allen said quietly. If there was something like genuine panic in his thoughts his manner did not betray it. Bob mentally applauded both the young Davenports. It took real breeding to face a situation like this with such poise.

"My dear!" Sue's hands were held out in welcome to the newcomer, Sue's kiss was given to both bride and groom with nothing but laughing protest at the surprise of it all. "A sister for a Christmas present, Allen dear! And such a pretty sister, too!"

She was panting a little, the slenderly rounded breast rising and falling in an effort to keep herself in hand. Patsy saw nothing, Allen saw nothing; only Bob,
what iron control she was exerting; realized and felt his heart almost bursting with admiration for the gallant young creature.

Allen, relieved of his acute apprehensions, relaxed, grew visibly fatuous and pleased with himself and his unannounced marriage.

"I told you so, Patsy! I knew all along it was the best way to do it!
Action first and explanations afterwards! Cavalry tactics, eh, Trenton?"

Bob muttered pleasantly if incoherently. Patsy's long gray eyes were roaming swiftly about the firelit room.

"How about having some light in here?" she inquired. "I can hardly see my hand before my face."

Bob obligingly pressed a button and several lamps bloomed forth.
In the sudden illumination Sue got her first real look at her brother's wife. Patsy wore a long fur coat with a matching cap which was perched jauntily on masses of ash-blond hair. Her makeup was a trifle heavy, her silk gown a bit too elaborate, but she was unde-nably attractive in an odd, exotic sort of way. She was as tall as Allen, far too thin, and the scent of a cluster of gardenias pinned to her coat warred with the expensive French perfume she wore.

All this Sue took in with a sinking heart. This Allen's wife! Allen who should have the best, the finest, the most genuine.

But it couldn't be helped now—it couldn't be helped now—her quick thoughts ran. As Bob had reminded her, such a lot depended on what was said and done this first evening. She exerted herself to throw additional warmth into her voice.

The Holidays

"Make her comfortable, Allen,
while I go tell Maggie to add a frill or two in honor of the occasion!"
She hurried away, glad of the moment's respite. She was queerly must come first here. Wave after wave of desolation rolled over her.

She felt homeless, unwanted. She glanced at Allen, expecting him to veto Bob's plan, but Allen smiled approvingly.

"Good idea, Trenton! Sue, you don't mind, do you, lamb? A man doesn't bring his wife home every day!"

"I don't mind," she answered
dully.

Presently she was beside Bob in the car.

"Drive about a bit and get your bearings?"

She assented, almost wordlessly.
She did not even realize when the man stopped his car and went into a drugstore, "for cigarettes, Sue!"
that there had been no telephone call from Barbara; that Bob was in there talking to her now, explaining, preparing her for Sue's coming. She was wrapped in a dream of misery and loneliness from which she could not awaken.

The day before Christmas she returned to her brother's house.
Allen had insisted that she be there for the holidays.

"It's your home just as much as it ever was, Sis," he told her kindly. "Patsy feels about it as I do, bless her! Lucky the rooms are so big. We've put twin beds in the front room, and moved you in back.
You don't mind, do you?"

No, she didn't mind, of course.
She didn't mind anything; not Patsy's, absurd assumption of haughty superiority, not Allen's infatuated eyes which saw only Patsy, his ears which heard only her somewhat thin and nasal voice; not Maggie's growing irritability at the "bossiness" of her new mistress; not the continual disorder of the lovely big livingroom, the reek of strong perfume from the bedroom of the newlyweds. These were all minor hurts which were swallowed up in the major pain which tore her heart.
Allen, her brother, her hero, had deceived her. He had been in love with this Patsy person for more than a year.

Worse than that, he had not had the courage to tell his sister himself, but had delegated the duty to one who was not even an old friend.

No Merry Plans

Somehow she lived through Christmas Day, the week that followed. All her merry plans were forgotten, pushed aside by Patsy's own. Patsy had sisters, it appeared; three of them, rather common looking girls, younger than herself and without her striking good looks. They took possession of the apartment with glad cries of appreciation. They teased Allen, laughed at him, borrowed small sums of money from him when Patsy happened to be out.

They came to dinner so frequently that Maggie announced she must have a second girl or she'd "quit." Sue let herself in quietly one afternoon to find Marie, the youngest, trying on Sue's own prettiest evening gown.

"Fits like it was made for me!"
she said, unabashed by the owner's arrival. "You're going to let me borrow it for tomorrow night, aren't you, Sue?"

"I am not," was the decisive reply. "You ruined the chiffon you wore last week, my dear, and I told you then never again. Take it off, and be careful how you handle it, Marie, won't you? It's my very most expensive frock for the winter."

"If only Patsy were not so tall," sighed Marie.

"Patsy's thanking her lucky stars
she is," was that person's comment.
"Not that I'd let you wear anything of mine, any more than Sue will, Marie. A good grade of corduroy is what you need in evening wear." She yawned and stretched her arms above her head. "Clear out now, girls. I want to talk to Sue."

"Listen," she began when they had gone. "You and I have got to talk, Sue."

The younger girl's eyes widened.
"What about?"

"This." She indicated the room they were in. "We need a guest room, Allen and I. I'd like my sisters to spend the night occasionally.
Allen ought to be able to entertain an out-of-town friend if he wants to." Her long eyes narrowed speculatively as they saw Sue flush. "Now don't go off at half-cock," she warned. "I'm not trying to get rid of you.
What I want you to do—is to persuade Allen to move; to take a house instead of this apartment. He told me weeks ago that most of the furniture of your old home is eating its head off in storage. Isn't it simply good sense to use it? There's a divine stucco on Ashland—I got the key and went through it yesterday.
It would be better to buy it, of course, but Allen won't hear to that. But we could take a long lease."

Sue held on to the arms of her chair. She had a feeling that the very walls of the room were whirling about her.

"What—what does Allen say?"

Patsy's shoulders lifted in a shrug.
"Oh, you know what men always say!
That he can't possibly afford it; that the whole company is shaving estimates to the bone to meet competition."

"That's true, isn't it?"

"Of course it's true. I ought to know, as Mr. Featherstone's private secretary. But Allen carries heavy insurance. He could borrow on that.
And there's your money—"

"Mine?"

Party Results In
Dinners for 200

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—A city magistrate's whim that sent Mr. and Mrs. James C. Lewis out to a $65.32 dinner "on the town" pyramided today into 200 Christmas dinners for the poor.

Magistrate Henry H. Curran recently instructed the Lewises to go out and "have a good dinner, the best in town" and sleep at a good hotel, with all expenses paid, after they had complained of construction noises near their home in executive Sutton Place.

They did—and Walter D. Binger, commissioner of public works, reimbursed them.

Then Magistrate Curran reimbursed Binger, and also sent another $65.32 check to the Salvation army.
To top it all, the Lewises sent their check, making a total of $130.64.

Salvation army officials said it would provide Yule dinners for 40 families of five persons each. The menu will be substantial, but somewhat different from the Lewis dinner of pressed duck, caviar, and vintage wines.

EXPECT RUSSIA TO HURL LARGE ARMY AT FINNS

Helsinki, Dec. 13 (AP)—The Finnish telegraphic agency circulated a report today that Soviet Russia, backed by Finland's resistance, is massing 1,500,000 first-line soldiers for a crushing blow.

This array of manpower—nearly equal to the total population of Finland and perhaps double the number of men now engaged on both sides of the war—would be supported by 1,000 planes, the agency said.

The major thrust, according to the agency, is expected in the Karelian isthmus, where Finns, entrenched in the zig zag line of fortifications called the Mannerheim line have fought off Red invaders since the war started 14 days ago.

The source of the report was not specified. The agency merely said such information had come into its hands.

Word of the imminent broadening of the Red campaign followed close upon a Finnish communiqué Tuesday reporting Finnish troops and planes had smashed a large-scale offensive on the Karelian isthmus and eastern or Lake Ladoga fronts.

Apparently the eastern phase of the Russian drive was part of a wide flanking maneuver against the Mannerheim line—an attempt to round Lake Ladoga for an assault on the eastern part of the strong isthmus defenses.

The fighting appeared to be some of the war's severest.

The enemy launched a powerful attack today along several sectors of the Karelian isthmus, the communiqué said.

"Hard fighting took place all day, especially on a hill overlooking a church at Muola. Almost a constant series of attacks were repulsed, the enemy suffering tremendous losses. We destroyed many tanks and left hundreds of the fallen enemy lying before our positions."

Severe fighting occurred also at the eastern front, particularly at Tolvajärvi, and cost the Russians a severe defeat. Three enemy battalions were destroyed. We captured 27 machine-guns, 25 express rifles, 13 machine pistols and other material and in addition destroyed several tanks.

Near Lohjala the enemy launched several attacks under the cover of artillery fire. The attacks were repulsed elsewhere on the eastern front, heavy battles continued.

The communiqué added that the FINNISH AIR FORCE—recently strengthened by British and Italian-made planes—made numerous reconnaissance flights and bombed and gunned enemy columns and supply bases at many points.

Several of 29 survivors from the ship identified as the 2,217-ton Bolheim declared upon reaching the Finnish port of Mantyluoto Tuesday that the attacker was a Russian undersea craft. There was no positive identification.

The captain, second officer and radio operator were killed when the submarine fired 15 shells into the vessel.

Lloyd's register lists a German freighter Bolheim 3,224 gross tons engaged in ore trade between northern Africa and the Netherlands before the European war.

(A Reuters British news agency dispatch said the freighter was en route from Bjorneborg, Finland, to Germany carrying 500 tons of wood pulp.)

City of Flint May Bring Finnish Refugees to U. S.

Bergen, Norway, Dec. 13 (AP)—The odyssey of the City of Flint may end in a voyage to the United States with Finnish refugees.

Shipping circles said the American vessel which first sprang into the news with the rescue of survivors from the sunken Athenia September 3 was expected here Saturday from Hangesund, Norway, where cargo was discharged.

The Flint is to depart again next Monday for an undisclosed northern Norwegian port where informed sources said Finnish refugees would be picked up.

Captured by the German raider Deutschland October 9 the Flint was taken to Murmansk, Soviet Russia, but upon returning southward was restored to the American crew November 3 when the Norwegian admiral took command.

JAPAN AND REDS TO NEGOTIATE

Tokyo, Dec. 13 (AP)—Yakichiro Suma, Japanese foreign office spokesman, confirmed today that Japan would open negotiations with Soviet Russia January 10 looking toward a trade treaty but said hopes still were held for a new treaty with the United States.

Suma admitted the Russian market presently was insufficient to replace that of America but said if she cannot buy from one country Japan should turn to another.

He contended that non-existence of a treaty with the United States would be harmful both to Japan and the United States materially and psychologically.

Suma declined to say whether he meant Japan would restrict trade with the United States or whether increased tension with the Far East would result. He said however trade would be possible under a mutually convenient condition.

Japan he said is attempting to find constructive ways of adjusting future as well as past relations with the United States regarding China. United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew has accused Japan of acts in China inimical to United States interests.

We are concentrating on making our attitude clear to the United States, Suma said.

The spokesman said Japan hoped to begin talks in Tokyo for a new pact governing Japanese fisheries in Russian waters while trade negotiations were pursued in Moscow and the outer Mongolia-Manchoukuo border was being defined at Chita.

Down to Earth Professor Makes Low-Cost Houses

Stillwater, Okla. (AP)—Prof. J. E. Kirkham of Oklahoma A & M College is Oklahoma's one-man low-cost housing administration.

He has found a building material that he says cuts costs about 25 percent but isn't satisfied.

He mixes common soil with chemicals and produces a substance he says "hardens with age and shrugs at inclement weather."

Dozens of houses have been built of it. Professor Kirkham who seeks no profit has offered his formula to the public in bulletin form.

The blocks still cost too much and so I continue to experiment," says Professor Kirkham.

The material besides being weather proof is a good insulating material and houses built of it are cool in summer and easy to heat in winter. Walls are six inches thick.

It lends itself to modernistic treatment and a house of the most modern architecture—how is nearing completion here. In addition, a 20-room N.Y.A. headquarters is built of Kirkham treated blocks.

Professor Kirkham is a practical engineer who specialized in building bridges and then wrote two technical books before settling down to teaching and determining to lower building costs.

5 GUILTY OF FRAUD

Pittsburgh, Dec. 13 (AP)—A federal jury Tuesday convicted five defendants of mail frauds in the "Jacob Baker estate" case but recommended leniency.

It was the second conviction for the five. They appealed and won a new trial after their first conviction.

They are Norman H. Blough, Davidsville, Pa.; Fred F. and W. H. C. Sprengel and David L. Anderson, Johnstown, Pa.; and William S. Miller, Indiana, Pa.

The conviction covered 10 counts of conspiracy and using the mails to defraud in collecting money from heirs to a non-existent Philadelphia estate which they claimed was founded by Jacob Baker, Revolutionary war hero. The government said Baker was a myth.

Helsinki, Dec. 13 (AP)—The Finnish telegraphic agency circulated a report today that Soviet Russia, irked by Finland's resistance, is massing 1,500,000 first-line soldiers for a crushing blow.

This array of manpower—nearly equal to the male population of Finland and perhaps double the number of men now engaged on both sides of the war—would be supported by 1,000 planes, the agency said.

An Evening Thought

There is no greater wisdom than that to time the beginning and outcome of things.—Bacon.

Out of the Past

Happening of days gone by as chronicled in The Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times the files reveal.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Veterans Elect: At a meeting of Corporal Shelly Post 9, G. A. R., on Saturday, William T. Ziegler was re-elected commander. This makes Mr. Ziegler's third consecutive term and he was also commander in 1873, the year after the founding of the Post. Other officers elected were: Senior vice commander, Harry Lott; junior vice commander, Jacob Herbst; adjutant, Hanson Lightner.

Lodge of Sorrow by Local Elks: An audience that filled Walter's Theatre attended the annual lodge of sorrow on Sunday afternoon by the Gettysburg Elks in memory of their departed brothers, nine of whom have died since the founding of the order.

The oration was delivered by Hon. William McSherry, who spoke particularly of Mr. John J. Eberhart, the only member who died during the past year.

The musical program was in charge of a Carlisle quartet. Miss Minnie Lohr was the accompanist. The invocation and benediction were pronounced by Dr. T. C. Billheimer.

Two Couples Married: Paul Edward Stahley, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Stahley, West Middle street, and Miss Flora Bell Baumgardner, also of Gettysburg, were married in Frederick, Saturday by Dr. E. H. Lamar.

Miss Jessie V. Shirley, of Fairfield, and George D. Naigle, of Mont Alto, were married by Dr. E. H. Lamar, in Frederick, on Saturday.

Beamer-Orner: At half past eleven o'clock on Thursday morning the wedding of Miss May E. Orner and Alvin A. Beamer took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hanson W. Taylor, near Ardenville. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. C. Hesson.

The wedding march was played by Miss Ruth Klepper. They will reside in Menallen township, where Mr. Beamer is engaged in farming. The bride is a daughter of Michael Orner, of Gettysburg, but has been living for some time with Mr. and Mrs. Taylor as an adopted daughter. Mr. Beamer is a son of Mrs. Calvin Beamer, of Menallen township.

Play From Steeple: Shortly before the dawn service in the church on Christmas morning the recently organized St. James orchestra will play Christmas hymns from the steeple. The organization is composed of thirteen musicians as follows: leader, Calvin Gouker; pianist, Miss Alice Miller; violin, Ernest Baker; Eugene Phillips, William Zinkand; Ralph Oyley, cornets, Ernest Oyley, John Raymond; flute, Wilbur Stalmsmith; horn, George Hughes; trombone, Edward Dougherty; bass, Ira Plank; and clarinet, A. Z. Rodgers.

Community Tree: Mrs. H. B. Reider, Mrs. A. B. Plank, Mrs. May Keet and Mrs. C. G. Crist, a committee having in hand an effort to secure funds for the erection of a community Christmas tree in Center Square, announced that about $60 will be needed if the project is to be carried out.

Choose Officers: The following officers were elected by Good Samaritan Lodge P. and A. M., at their meeting Thursday evening: worshipful master, J. Allen Dickson; senior warden, John H. Crowe; junior warden, E. M. Bender; secretary, D. A. Skelly; treasurer, W. T. Ziegler; trustees, J. M. Caldwell, D. A. Skelly and C. W. Myers, and representative of Grand Lodge, Robert Caldwell.

Personal: Gilbert Jones, who is property man with the Loie Francis Stock company, is spending a week with his mother, Mrs. Minnie Jones. Mrs. W. J. Ryan, who was the guest last week of Miss Carrie Codori, has returned to Philadelphia.

Mrs. Maurice Rudinger and son have returned to their home on Chambersburg street after a visit with friends in York Springs. Mrs. George Oyley and daughter, Evalena P. Oyley, are on a three to

I like the sort of learning that tells of birds and flowers
And all the countless splendors that fill this earth of ours.
But Oh, I fear the wisdom that must the time employ
To fashion dreadful engines to slaughter and destroy.

All learning should be gentle and all we learn should end
In making man the richer to be to all a friend.

Each mystery discovered better let what we build,
And make us all the wiser, our hands a bit more skilled.

Why must our boasted culture be turned to vicious things,
To spreading desolation and death with flying wings?
And why must all our wisdom, our genius and our skill,
Be bent to serve men's hatreds; to ruin and to kill?

Leningrad Churches Used as Hospitals

Moscow, Dec. 13 (AP)—Churches in Leningrad were converted into military hospitals today as a steady stream of Red army casualties from the Finnish fronts overtaken the city's regular hospital facilities.

While Tass, Soviet official news agency, distributed without comment Russia's rejection of the League of Nations' mediation offer in the Finnish dispute, newspapers gave glowing reports that Finns welcomed their Russian "liberators" in the army-occupied sections.

Workers in the United States, Britain and Sweden, the newspapers said, welcomed the new communist-headed Finnish "people's government" set up at the border village of Terijoki.

On the diplomatic front, speculation was aroused by the arrival of Dr. Joseph Tiso, president of Slovakia, on an undisclosed mission.

A Red army communique reported Tuesday troops occupied two Finnish villages and the railroad station of a third. The advance was reported to have reached Markajarvi, seven miles southwest of Salla and 45 miles within the frontier of central Finland.

The army announced the occupation of Humtilla (Huunnukka), about 30 miles from the Soviet border on the north bank of Lake Ladoga.

THIEF IN THE HAND

York, Pa., Dec. 13 (AP)—A little amateur detective work by Paul Sultner produced results—but not for long. Finding several chisels in his yard, Sultner armed himself and kept watch for a would-be housebreaker he was sure would return. His hunch was right. He captured an intruder and marched him toward police headquarters at pistol point. But Sultner's prisoner knocked the gun from his hand and escaped.

ARM OF THE LAW

Bethlehem, Pa., Dec. 13 (AP)—Soviet hunters miscalculated when they tried to snatch a "cop" guarding a public Christmas tree. The "cop" was made of concrete and all the would-be abductors got was one arm.

EMPTY HOURS

I HAVE just finished reading a small book about the late E. V. Lucas, the English writer and publisher, by his daughter. I had to send to England for it, and I am glad I did, for it gave me a clearer picture of a man whose writings I have long enjoyed.

Lucas was a great student of Charles Lamb, and wrote the best life that has been written of him. Also, to his credit, are dozens of interesting small books of essays. He lived a busy life and had interesting friends, but what impressed me most in his daughter's story was his energy and the interest that he took in making every hour of the day count for something. He hated empty hours.

The ordinary human being doesn't realize how many hours pass him by without even a greeting from him! And they are gone forever. They never come back.

When I listen to someone else give information I should be able to give, I say to myself that he filled the hour that I let pass empty. To have knowledge is not only power—but fun, as well. The better the background of a man's mind, the more readily is he able to grasp, and understand, events as they appear each day. If you know the past of a man, or a nation, you have something upon which to base a present opinion.

I often think of W. Robertson Nicoll, who was once editor of "The British Weekly." So greatly did he give himself to his paper that J. M. Barrie once said: "He came stalking out of all the pages, meeting every reader face to face." He read thousands of books quickly and intelligently. But the big thing about him was that he was forever encouraging others, especially beginners in writing, and when he had gone from this earth, Barrie said of him: "We will miss him most of all, remembering his thousand kindnesses, his glorious enthusiasms, and the passion of his soul." No empty hours ever left him.

What a grand hour is the last of the day, before retiring! In it may be placed many a happy memory of conversation or reading. Some bedside book should always be handily placed. The last hour of your day should mirror your happiest experiences, and be filled as well with thoughts of gratitude for every blessing.

One Is Beloved

BY FRANCES SHELLEY WEES

YESTERDAY: Sue is deeply shocked when Bob breaks the news to her that Allen has married one of the secretaries in his firm without telling her.

Chapter Nine

BOB put his hands on her shoulders and gripped them close. "If you let Allen down now, you'll never forgive yourself. Think how good he's been to you all these years! Think how he must dread this first meeting between you and his wife—far more than you are dreading it. Sweet, believe me! Anyway, it's got to be gone through whether you like it or not. It's up to you to make it a flop—or something old Allen has a right to expect when he brings his bride home."

She was still for a long moment, her small shoulders lax and drooping in his grasp. Then she freed herself, said with quiet dignity, "Thank you, Bob! I'll behave now." A quarter of an hour later she left her bedroom at the sound of the opening door. She had changed to a trailing frock of dull red silk whose brief puffed sleeves and round neck exposed her white arms and throat. Bright color burned in her cheeks, and her eyes were very dark and starry.

"Sue, this is my wife!" Allen said quietly. If there was something like genuine panic in his thoughts his manner did not betray it. Bob mentally applauded both the young Davenports. It took real breeding to face a situation like this with such poise.

"My dear!" Sue's hands were held out in welcome to the newcomer, Sue's kiss was given to both bride and groom with nothing but laughing protest at the surprise of it all. "A sister for a Christmas present, Allen dear! And such a pretty sister, too!"

She was panting a little, the slenderly rounded breast rising and falling in an effort to keep herself in hand. Patsy saw nothing, Allen saw nothing; only Bob, what iron control she was exerting; realized and felt his heart almost bursting with admiration for the gallant young creature.

Allen, relieved of his acute apprehensions, relaxed, grew visibly fatuous and pleased with himself and his unannounced marriage. "I told you so, Patsy! I knew all along it was the best way to do it! Action first and explanations afterwards! Cavalry tactics, eh, Trenton?"

Bob muttered pleasantly if incoherently. Patsy's long gray eyes were roaming swiftly about the firelit room. "How about having some light in here?" she inquired. "I can hardly see my hand before my face."

Bob obligingly pressed a button and several lamps bloomed forth. In the sudden illumination Sue got her first real look at her brother's wife. Patsy wore a long fur coat with a matching cap which was perched jauntily on masses of ash-blond hair. Her makeup was a trifle heavy, her silk gown a bit too elaborate, but she was undeniably attractive in an odd, exotic sort of way. She was as tall as Allen, far too thin, and the scent of a cluster of gardenias pinned to her coat warred with the expensive French perfume she wore.

All this Sue took in with a sinking heart. This Allen's wife! Allen who should have the best, the finest, the most genuine.

But it couldn't be helped now—it couldn't be helped now—her quick thoughts ran. As Bob had reminded her, such a lot depended on what was said and done this first evening. She exerted herself to throw additional warmth into her voice.

The Holidays

"Make her comfortable, Allen, while I go tell Maggie to add a frill or two in honor of the occasion!" She hurried away, glad of the moment's respite. She was queerly must come first here. Wave after wave of desolation rolled over her. She felt homeless, unwanted. She glanced at Allen, expecting him to veto Bob's plan, but Allen smiled approvingly.

"Good idea, Trenton! Sue, you don't mind, do you, lamb? A man doesn't bring his wife home every day!"

"I don't mind," she answered dully.

Presently she was beside Bob in the car.

"Drive about a bit and get your bearings?"

She assented, almost wordlessly. She did not even realize when the man stopped his car and went into a drugstore. "For cigarettes, Sue!" that there had been no telephone call from Barbara; that Bob was in there talking to her now, explaining, preparing her for Sue's coming. She was wrapped in a dream of misery and loneliness from which she could not awaken.

The day before Christmas she returned to her brother's house. Allen had insisted that she be there for the holidays.

"It's your home just as much as it ever was, Sis," he told her kindly. "Patsy feels about it as I do, bless her! Lucky the rooms are so big. We've put two beds in the front room, and moved you in back. You don't mind, do you?"

No, she didn't mind, of course. She didn't mind anything; not Patsy's absurd assumption of haughty superiority, not Allen's inflated eyes which saw only Patsy, his ears which heard only her somewhat thin and nasal voice; not Maggie's growing irritability at the "bossiness" of her new mistress; not the continual disorder of the lovely big living-room, the reek of strong perfume from the bedroom of the newly-weds. Those were all minor hurts which were swallowed up in the major pain which tore her heart.

Allen, her brother, her hero, had deceived her. He had been in love with this Patsy person for more than a year.

Worse than that he had not had the courage to tell his sister himself, but had delegated the duty to one who was not even an old friend.

No Merry Plans

Somewhat she lived through Christmas Day, the week that followed. All her merry plans were forgotten, pushed aside by Patsy's moaners, her sisters, it appeared; three of them, rather common looking girls, younger than herself and without her striking good looks. They took possession of the apartment with glad cries of appreciation. They teased Allen, laughed at him, borrowed small sums of money from him when Patsy happened to be out.

They came to dinner so frequently that Maggie announced she must have a second girl or she'd "quit." Sue let herself in quietly one afternoon to find Marie, the youngest, trying on Sue's own prettiest evening gown.

"Fits like it was made for me!" she said, unabashed by the owner's arrival. "You're going to let me borrow it for tomorrow night, aren't you, Sue?"

"I am not," was the decisive reply. "You ruined the chiffon you wore last week, my dear, and I told you then never again. Take it off, and be careful how you handle it. Marie, won't you? It's my very most expensive frock for the winter."

"If only Patsy were not so tall," sighed Marie.

"Patsy's thanking her lucky stars she is," was that person's comment. "Not that I'd let you wear anything of mine, any more than Sue will, Marie. A good grade of corduroy is what you need in evening wear." She yawned and stretched her arms above her head. "Clear out now, girls, I want to talk to Sue."

"Listen," she began when they had gone. "You and I have got to talk, Sue."

The younger girl's eyes widened. "What about?"

"This." She indicated the room they were in. "We need a guest room, Allen and I. I'd like my sisters to spend the night occasionally. Allen ought to be able to entertain an out-of-town friend if he wants to." Her long eyes narrowed speculatively as they saw Sue flush. "Now don't go off at half-cock," she warned. "I'm not trying to get rid of you. What I want you to do—" her voice took on a coaxing note—"is to persuade Allen to move, to take a house instead of this apartment. He told me weeks ago that most of the furniture of your old home is eating its head off in storage. Isn't it simply good sense to use it? There's a divine stucco on Ashland—I got the key and went through it yesterday. It would be better to buy it, of course, but Allen won't hear to that. But we could take a long lease."

Sue held on to the arms of her chair. She had a feeling that the very walls of the room were whirling about her.

"What—what does Allen say?"

Patsy's shoulders lifted in a shrug. "Oh, you know what men always say! That he can't possibly afford it; that the whole company is shaving estimates to the bone to meet competition."

"That's true, isn't it?"

"Of course it's true. I ought to know, as Mr. Featherstone's private secretary. But Allen carries heavy insurance. He could borrow on that. And there's your money—"

"Mine?"

Party Results In Dinners for 200

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—A city magistrate's whim that sent Mr. and Mrs. James C. Lewis out to a $65.32 dinner "on the town" pyramided today into 200 Christmas dinners for the poor.

Magistrate Henry H. Curran recently instructed the Lewises to go out and "have a good dinner, the best in town" and sleep at a good hotel, with all expenses paid, after they had complained of construction noises near their home in executive Sutton Place.

They did—and Walter D. Binger, commissioner of public works, reimbursed them.

Then Magistrate Curran reimbursed Binger, and also sent another $65.32 check to the Salvation army. To top it all, the Lewises sent their check, making a total of $130.64.

Salvation army officials said it would provide Yule dinners for 40 families of five persons each. The menu will be substantial, but somewhat different from the Lewis dinner of pressed duck, caviar, and vintage wines.

Files 60th Plea for Writ of Habeas Corpus

Baltimore, Dec. 13 (AP).—For the sixtieth time in six years Louis Berman hoped today the correspondence law course he studied in a prison cell would lead to freedom from a life term of murder.

Under a statute permitting him to seek a writ of habeas corpus from every circuit judge in the state at least once, he filed his petition before Judge William Loker, of St. Mary's county. The previous 59 attempts were unsuccessful, but each time the state provided a car, chauffeur and guard to take him to court from the Maryland penitentiary in Baltimore.

"I don't want to deny any man the right of habeas corpus," said Willis R. Jones, chairman of the board of correction, "but Berman is abusing the law. I've tried to talk to him but he doesn't seem amenable. He doesn't have any respect for the decisions rendered by the courts."

Berman was sentenced in 1928.

Santa and the Talking Doll

—BY SIGRID ARNE

THE STORY SO FAR: Santa has taken a gift to the King of Westphalia, a doll made by the fairies so she can talk after midnight. Eric, the son of Lightning, who wanted the doll, has been put to sleep for a day and a night by the fairies.

Chapter Nine The Glass Man

FOR an hour that night Leezen sat silently watching the King of Westphalia. He stared motionless into the leaping fire. It was so silent in the great hall that Leezen could hear the soft swish of snow against the windows. She reached for a little gold box on the table and opened it. There lay a flashing sapphire.

She held it up to the fire, and turned it in the light so that pink lights darted from it. "Oh, I wish Eric could see this," she thought. Then the stone felt queer in her fingers. She looked sharply, and as she did, it turned into a little man, only two inches high. He seemed to be made of blue-white glass. He bowed.

"Why, who are you?" whispered Leezen.

"I'm just a thought some one is thinking of you," said the little man. "Usually I lie asleep in that sapphire. But when anyone picks me up I can reflect the thought of a friend."

"I see," said Leezen. "But who is thinking of me?"

"Look," said the little man. He pulled out a tiny flute, no bigger than a pin, and began to play. "Leezen, Leezen."

"It's Eric," said Leezen with shining eyes.

A Sad Tune

The little glass man played on but he played so softly only Leezen heard. She whispered, "How is Eric?" Then the little man played a very sad tune. "Oh, dear," sighed Leezen. "I must escape from here and find him."

She put the little man back into the gold box and as she closed the lid over him he disappeared and only the round sapphire lay there. Then she rose from her chair so cautiously the King didn't notice her. She backed away from him and into the far shadows of the great hall where she found a wide staircase lit by candles. So she tripped silently down them and came out on a court yard where there stood two guardsmen dressed in armor with crimson plumes waving from their helmets. They leaned on their spears. Along the top of the court yard wall great flares of light burned. An iron gate opened onto the road.

Leezen hid behind a pillar to watch because she wanted to take one of the horses tied near the gate. Then she saw the guardsmen walk over to stand under one of the flares. They bent to look at the hilt of a fine sword.

Quick as a breeze Leezen slipped across the court yard. In a twinkling she was on a big white horse and he was galloping out of the court yard, onto the drawbridge, and down the road.

She leaned over to whisper to the

Former Ohio Governor Buys Atlanta Newspaper

Atlanta, Dec. 13 (AP).—The Atlanta Journal and its radio station W. S. B. functioned under ownership of Ohio's former Governor James M. Cox today, after nearly 40 years of control by James R. Gray, Sr., and his heirs.

Editor James R. Gray, Jr., in a statement Tuesday announced the sale—at an undisclosed price—of the newspaper, the 50,000-watt W. S. B. and W. E. G. G., W. S. B.'s portable relay unit.

Gray said a factor in the decision to sell the 57-year-old newspaper was the "difficulties inherent in" division of control among several heirs following the death of the elder Gray and the prospective further division as shares pass to the third generation.

Cox, 1920 democratic presidential nominee, confirmed the purchase in Miami, Florida, but made no immediate statement on his plans for operation of the properties.

The newspaper early became a member of the Associated Press and in 1894 was enthusiastically supporting this organization. It was one of the charter members of the Associated Press wirephoto network.

OPPOSE SALARY TAX
Philadelphia, Dec. 13 (AP)—Union

labor leaders mapped legal tactics to circumvent a 1 and 1/2 per cent tax on all incomes earned in Philadelphia as city council met today to act on the budget-balancing measure.

Opposition to the proposal gathered momentum slowly in contrast to the hue and cry that thwarted attempts last year to put through a similar tax. Only mild protests were registered Tuesday when the council finance committee approved the levy. Friday is the deadline for adoption of the 1940 city-county budget.

Files 60th Plea for Writ of Habeas Corpus

Baltimore, Dec. 13 (AP)—For the 60th time in six years Louis Berian hoped today the correspondence he had studied in a prison cell would lead to freedom from a life term of murder.

Under a statute permitting him to file a writ of habeas corpus from prison, Berian filed his petition before Judge William Loker of St. Charles county. The previous 59 attempts were unsuccessful, but each time the state provided a car, chauffeur and guard to take him to court from the Maryland penitentiary in Baltimore.

"I don't want to deny any man the right of habeas corpus," said Judge Loker, chairman of the board of correction, "but Berian is not the law. I've tried to talk to him but he doesn't seem amenable. He doesn't have any respect for the decisions rendered by the courts."

Berian was sentenced in 1922.

BREAK FOR SOUTHPAWS

Gettysburg, Pa., Dec. 13 (AP)—Pupils will get an unaccustomed break when the nine new buildings of Pennsylvania State college are opened. About 250 of the 5,000 students are made to leave their homes with left handed desks. Officials report about 90 per cent of the 6,000 students are left handed.

NO TIME FOR THANKS

Williamsport, Pa., Dec. 13 (AP)—A boy freed by Boy Scouts from four days imprisonment in a cult didn't stop to thank its rescuers. The Scouts led and watered the dog, and the barker had attracted seven-year-old Richard Smith, but it was away as soon as they moved away stones blocking the cult entrance.

Santa and the Talking Doll

—BY SIGRID ARNE

THE STORY SO FAR: Santa has taken a gift to the King of Westphalia, a doll made by the Westphals so she can talk after midnight. Eric, the son of Lightning, who wanted the doll, has been put to sleep for a day and a night by the fairies.

Chapter Nine
The Glass Man
FOR an hour that night Leezen sat silently watching the King of Westphalia. He stared motionless into the leaping fire. It was so silent in the great hall that Leezen could hear the soft swish of snow against the windows. She reached for a little gold box on the table and opened it. There lay a flashing sapphire.

She held it up to the fire, and turned it in the light so that pink lights danced from it. "Oh, I wish Eric could see this," she thought. Then the stone felt queer in her fingers. She looked sharply, and as she did, it turned into a little man, only two inches high. He seemed to be made of blue-white glass. He bowed.

"Why, who are you?" whispered Leezen.

"I'm just a thought some one is thinking of you," said the little man. "Usually I am asleep in that sapphire. But when anyone picks me up I can reflect the thought of a friend."

"I see," said Leezen. "But who is thinking of me?"

"Look," said the little man. He pulled out a tiny flute, no bigger than a pin, and began to play. "Leezen, Leezen."

"It's Eric," said Leezen with shining eyes.

A Sad Tune
The little glass man played on but he played so softly only Leezen heard. She whispered, "How is Eric?" Then the little man played a very sad tune. "Oh, dear," sighed Leezen. "I must escape from here and find him."

She put the little man back into the gold box and as she closed the lid over him he disappeared and only the round sapphire lay there. Then she rose from her chair so cautiously the King didn't notice her. She backed away from him and into the far shadows of the great hall where she found a wide staircase lit by candles. So she slipped silently down them and came out on a court yard where there stood two guardsmen dressed in armor with crimson plumes waving from their helmets. They leaned on their spears. Along the top of the court yard wall great flares of light burned. An iron gate opened onto the road.

Leezen hid behind a pillar to watch because she wanted to take one of the horses tied near the gate. Then she saw the guardsmen walk over to stand under one of the flares. They bent to look at the hill of a fine sword.

Quick as a breeze Leezen slipped across the court yard. In a twinkling she was on a big white horse and he was galloping out of the court yard, onto the drawbridge, and down the road.

She leaned over to whisper to the horse, "Quick, To Toyland before dawn for then I become like a stone." The horse pricked up his ears and sped. The strong white horse ran and ran until his eyes were red. But it was many, many miles to Toyland, and the woods grew deeper and more lonesome.

After the two had ridden through tall pine trees for three or four hours Leezen saw two bright spots by the side of the road. It was the glowing eyes of a young wolf that had just awaked and was stretching himself. Then she saw an old crow on the branch of a pine tree take his head out from under his wing and yawn. He cackled after them.

"Who are you, who are you?" "Oh, dear," sighed Leezen. "It's near dawn." She leaned over the horse and whispered, "Faster, faster."

He pulled his muscles tauter. His steps became great leaps. But try as he would he was still galloping through the woods when the sun sent out its first streak of pink. "Wait," shouted Leezen. The horse pulled up short. She slipped to the ground and ran into the woods. At the foot of a great tree she stopped. She was only a lifeless doll that couldn't see nor hear nor talk. The horse whinnied with fright and galloped off. Leezen was alone and lost.

Former Ohio Governor Buys Atlanta Newspaper

Atlanta, Dec. 13 (AP)—The Atlanta Journal and its radio station W. S. B. functioned under ownership of Ohio's former Governor James M. Cox today, after nearly 40 years of control by James R. Gray, Sr., and his heirs.

Editor James R. Gray, Jr., in a statement Tuesday announced the sale—at an undisclosed price—of the newspaper, the 50,000-watt W. S. B. and W. E. G. C., W. S. B.'s portable relay unit.

Gray said a factor in the decision to sell the 57-year-old newspaper was the "difficulties inherent in" division of control among several heirs following the death of the elder Gray and the prospective further division as shares pass to the third generation.

Cox, 1920 democratic presidential nominee, confirmed the purchase in Miami, Florida, but made no immediate statement of his plans for operation of the properties.

The newspaper early became a member of the Associated Press and in 1894 was enthusiastically supporting this organization. It was one of the charter members of the Associated Press wirephoto network.

Nazi Liner Docks At Bremerhaven

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—The North German Lloyd line offices here said today the liner Bremen which successfully ran the British blockade from Murmansk, Russia, had docked safely in Bremerhaven.

The line said the Bremen docked today at noon, German time, and that another liner, the New York, whose position was not definitely known in this country, had reached Hamburg safely. The New York also had been at Murmansk.

The 51,731-ton Bremen, delayed here several days before the outbreak of the war while customs agents searched for contraband, sailed from New York August 30.

STEER RUNS AMOK

Pittsboro, Pa., Dec. 13 (AP)—A black steer from Ohio apparently didn't like taking his last ride to the P. A. Kline packing company. He jumped out of a truck, but a company employee, frightened scores of school children and raced six miles to Trafford City and back before being brought down with a deer rifle.

TRAFFIC JAM

Reading, Pa., Dec. 13 (AP)—Impatient motorists honked horns behind an automobile halted at a street intersection. The signal changed. A policeman shouted, then investigated. Behind the wheel he found Albert Boltz, dead of a heart ailment.

Roosevelt Advocates Trade Agreements

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—Ex-tension of the reciprocal trade program, advocated by President Roosevelt, was shaping up today as one of the biggest issues for the 1940 congress.

Shortly after the chief executive told reporters late Tuesday he would ask for renewal of the reciprocal trade act, which expires June 12, senate minority leader McNary (R-Ore.) predicted its overwhelming defeat.

The President said the trade program, inaugurated by Secretary of State Hull, had met with success in increasing American exports. He expressed the opinion it should be continued in an effort to reach potential foreign markets offering opportunities for increased sales of American products.

Many of the foes, however, have said they opposed the program on the ground it has permitted an increase in agricultural imports while this country faced crop surpluses.

Not Alarmed Over 170 State College Influenza Cases

State College, Pa., Dec. 13 (AP)—Dr. Joseph P. Ritenour, director of health service at Pennsylvania State college, insisted today there was no cause for alarm over a sudden outbreak of intestinal influenza which has stricken more than 170 co-eds at the school.

He reported 86 women in four college dormitories were confined in bed with the illness "that ordinarily lasts but two or three days." An additional 85 patients are "up and around."

Doctor Ritenour said some of the 6,600 students were asking that Christmas vacation be moved up due to the outbreak. A college spokesman stated no student was held on the campus against his will and that anyone stricken with the illness who failed to give promise of recovering before start of vacation was advised to go home.

CREAM ON THE CUFF

Omaha, Neb. — Sammy, a common alley cat, has a charge account for his milk. Each day the milkman leaves a bottle, even "pours" for Sammy, at a bakery garage where the cat keeps warm. The bakery cashier sends a monthly account to New York headquarters and a special check is made out to the dairy for Sammy's milk. On Christmas Day he gets a bottle of cream.

AMONG HIS SOUVENIRS
Fort Wayne, Ind. — Frank Williams, 51, after serving a 41-day jail term for a minor offense, was about to go home. Deputy Sheriff Robert Bledsoe searched him and found a jail-owned towel, soap and spoon in his pocket. He sent Williams right back to a cell, charged with petit larceny.

FUTILITY
Covington, Ky. — Harry Penny, president of a millwork company, figured it might be a good idea to change his safe combination just to be safe. But, he told police, thieves came during the night, opened the box, took $25 — and carefully locked it again.

THAT'S THE WAY IT GOES
Sacramento, Calif. — Charles Peters, 53, ran to call an ambulance for a stranger he thought was injured. He slipped and broke a leg. The stranger was just drunk.

Portland, Ore. — If K. P. Scott ever forgets his phone number he's sunk. His phone is Sunset 7342; his auto license is 7342; he lives at 7342 S.E. 32d avenue.

TRAPPED
Avilla, Ind.—Herbert Eley's rat trap worked almost too well. He piped carbon monoxide from the exhaust of his automobile into his basement to kill the rodents; then went down to see how it was working. Eley was overcome. His mother rescued him.

WHAT? NO SPINACH?
Lafayette, Ind.—Prof. B. H. Petty of Purdue university says his pet Patsy showed what a dog could do on good, plain food. Patsy, part fox terrier and part spitz, died at the age of 18 years. She lived to that aged, said the professor, on a diet of only raw hamburger, fruit and vegetables.

Des Moines, Ia.—The man with the hay and the man with the diamond got right down to pri-mitive business practices, a swap. Herman Lanz, 56, a bachelor farm-er living near Newton, walked into Max Solar's jewelry store here, selected a man's diamond ring and said: "I'll give you 20 tons of hay for it." "It's a deal," said Solar. Alfalfa hay is priced currently at $8 to $11 a ton.

STANDARD OIL TO ANNOUNCE NEW GAS

The pledge of product leadership which the company made to its dealers in 1933 was re-affirmed by E. H. Collins, vice president and manager of the Standard Oil company of Pennsylvania at a meet-ing of Gettysburg Esso dealers near Chambersburg.

The meeting was called to present to the dealers the first full details of the most important marketing change in the history of the com-pany: The announcement of the New Esso, first premium quality gasoline to be sold at "regular" price, and the new Esso Extra, re-placing the company's old Esso.

The dealers also were given full details of the award to the scientists of the Esso laboratories of the 1939 national award for chemical engineering achievement. The award, which never before has been given to an oil company, was in recognition of Esso's many advance-ments in developing super-fuels for aircraft and other high powered engines and was presented by Dr. Webster M. Jones, President of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

U. S. Alert for Violations Of National Defense Laws

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP) — The Federal bureau of investigation is receiving an average of 214 com-plaints a day of espionage, sabotage and violations of national defense laws.

The bureau said Tuesday night in a report on its activities however, that "the internal security of the United States is better protected than at any other period in our national existence."

Since early last summer, the re-port said, F.B.I. agents have been given intensive training in the handling of espionage and sabotage investigations.

British Try New Attack on Mines

London, Dec. 13 (AP) — The British air force tried out a new method of scotching the German mine menace today.

The air ministry announced aerial "security patrols" had been main-tained throughout the night over mine-laying and aircraft bases in Helgoland bight.

Indicating the system might be-come general, a ministry spokesman said there was "obviously a lot be-hind it."

(Helgoland, an island in the North Sea, lies 45 miles northwest of the mouths of the Elbe and Weser rivers. It and its bight, or bay, are an important link in Ger-many's naval defense.)

British radio listeners saw in the air ministry communique a possible explanation for sudden cessation of broadcasting by Bremen and Ham-burg radio stations Tuesday night.

They faded out during programs of English news bulletins and re-mained silent until early this morn-ing.

(Planes could orient themselves by picking up a radio station's broad-casts.)
